DEDICATION

The 1970 Sheveron is proudly dedicated to Mr. James D. Podraza—head coach and science instructor at the Vernon-Verona-Sherrill Central High School.

Following graduation from Syracuse University in 1957, Mr. Podraza began his teaching and coaching career at VVS. As a chemistry teacher, his attitude creates an eagerness to learn. A tribute to his exceptional ability to communicate as a teacher is the record number of students who have successfully passed regents examinations as a result of his classroom instruction.

Using the know-how and experience he acquired as a tackle for the Syracuse "Orange," Mr. Podraza has served as head football coach at VVS for five years. His 24 game undefeated record is only one product of his coaching ability and devotion. His teams have won or shared the Tri-Valley League Crown for four of the five years and have compiled an overall 32-7-1 record.

There will always be in our hearts a place for Mr. Podraza—teacher, coach, friend. We believe this dedication will express a mere fraction of the students' gratitude to him for making our days at VVS so memorable.

VERNON-VERONA-SHERRILL CENTRAL VERONA, NEW YORK

*"As a man thinketh in his heart so is he." So encompassing is this idea that it reaches out to every condition and circumstance of life. A man is what he thinks. Positive thoughts and actions do not produce negative results and negative thoughts and actions do not produce positive results. The optimist strives and wins, the pessimist quits and loses.

Man is the architect of his future, dreamer of his destiny. Confidence in the present predicts the future.

Individual flexibility is a basic necessity for successful group relationships. Your friends are mirrors of yourself; as they influence you, you influence them. Before one can contribute to the group he must know himself, for the group will condemn the individual or praise him. With confidence based on inner knowledge, the individual can achieve, on the see-saw of life, a balance with the group.

*"Each individual has the power to form his own character and create his own happiness." Man is restrained only by himself. Eliminate the negative. The dream that the student holds in his mind, the ideal that dwells in his heart—from this he will build his life, this he will become.

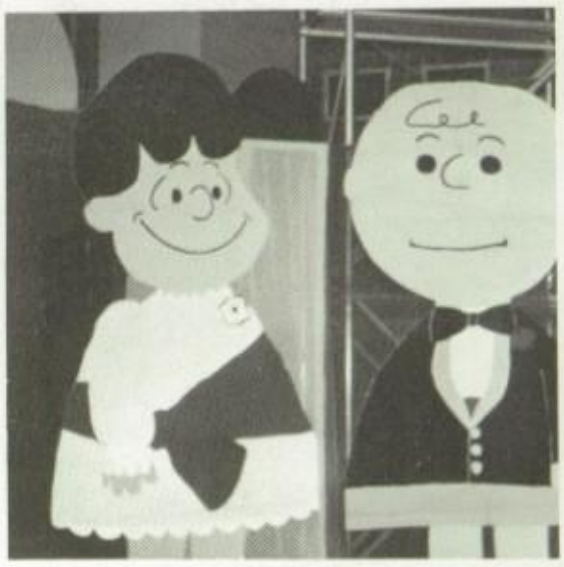
"THERE IS NO END, NO BEGINNING, ONLY THE INFINITE PASSION OF LIFE."

Frederico Fellini

HAPPINESS IS . . .

painting Charlie Brown in a suit and Lucy in a pink formal and then going home and dressing yourself for the Football Dance. Happiness is . . . our Queen Amy Raynsford.



MOMENT TO MOMENT

The clock ticked by as we scraped together enough money for the band and decorations. It is hard to believe that Kleenex and chicken wire can turn into a throne fit for a Prom king and queen . . . especially beautiful Marsha Miller and charming John Lamb.

AMERICAN FIELD SERVICE STUDENT

LEELA TOBIAS

Selamat,

Hi! I come from the island of Singapore which is at the southern tip of the Malaysian Pennisula and is the fourth largest port in the world. Therefore, Singapore has a lively atmosphere.

My family consists of six members, Mum and Dad, my two brothers George and Godwin, my sister Elizabeth, and myself. Dad works as a mechanical engineer while Mum is contented to be a devoted housewife. George attends the University of Singapore and is majoring in Marine Engineering. Elizabeth and Godwin are in the 10th and 7th grades, respectively.

After I graduate, I would like to go to the University of Singapore and study law.

I love America very much and am going to miss it when I go home. I an very happy to have been able to attend VVS and am proud to graduate with the Class of '70. Thank you very much for everything everyone has done for me to make my stay so enjoyable.

Selamat Tinggal,
Leela Tobias

Achievement, of w h a t e v e r kind, is the crown of effort, the diadem of thought. By the aid of self-control, resolution, purity, righteousness, and well-directed thought a man ascends. By the aid of animality, indolence, impurity, corruption, and confusion of thought a man descends.

SUPERINTENDENT

As we ponder our fate in this life—we wonder. We wonder what our lives will be as temptations, successes, failures, happinesses and sorrows inundate the paths we travel. Like the wise man, we soon recognize that life is just a matter of decisions; and these decisions are just a matter of thinking. Thus, man's life is just a reflection of what he thinks it should be. An appropriate definition of one's life could include the following phrases:

"A man achieves according to what he believes."
"What a man can imagine or conceive in his mind, he can accomplish."
"Impossibles are only impossibles as thinking makes them so."
"The world is not interested in the storms you encountered, but whether you brought in the ship."
"Triumph is just umph added to try."
"As a man thinketh in his heart so is he."

Best wishes to each member of the class of 1970 as you begin your new career in life.

DRIVER EDUCATION

The purpose of a driver education course is to teach the student the proper way to operate a car. In the classroom the student is exposed to the safety rules, the causes of accidents, and the dangers of unsafe driving. It is hoped that by exposing the student to the dangers of careless driving he will establish the proper attitude toward driving. The safe drivers are those who think before acting, use good judgment in their actions and watch out for the other drivers. By learning to concentrate on good driving habits, the students will become better, safer drivers.

AGRICULTURE

The student of Agriculture is involved with the basic needs of man, the production and growth of food necessary for survival.

The sweat of the field, the gentleness of a new born calf, and the joy of a successful crop, results in being involved directly with the complexity of life reduced to its basic elements.

Agriculture is the scientific education of tomorrow's productive farmer, dairyman, and naturalist.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS

The Industrial Arts Program is designed to allow boys to learn the fundamental industrial processes and operation. The boys can then proceed to explore their areas of interest through advanced courses. These courses expose the boys to the workings of industry and allow them to discover their own abilities and aptitudes in this field of work.

Instructors: Robert Morris, Joseph Cmaylo, James Graves.

ART

Flexibility, visual awareness of environment, personal interpretation, originality of idea combined with technical knowledge, and skill of media prepare the student of Art for the creative world of tomorrow.

Visual communications become a necessity of the totally literate man in relation to the cultural and technical society of today. Complexity of problem are reduced to the basic abstract idea. The process of creative thinking results in a product of creative living. From abstract conception to concrete result, the student through studio exploration of various media develops self reliance, value judgements, philosophical introspection and the individuality needed to be the fine artist, designer architect, graphic communicator or simply the creative individual.

The experience of art has something for everyone from . . . serious fun . . . emotional outlet . . . self discipline . . . break from the pressures of society to the personal satisfaction of a personal solution. Art becomes, to each, a search into the unknown . . . a definition of tomorrow based on intuition into the whole logical, emotional complexity known as man . . . Art is an innately personal focal point from which to see one's self—one's society—one's dream.

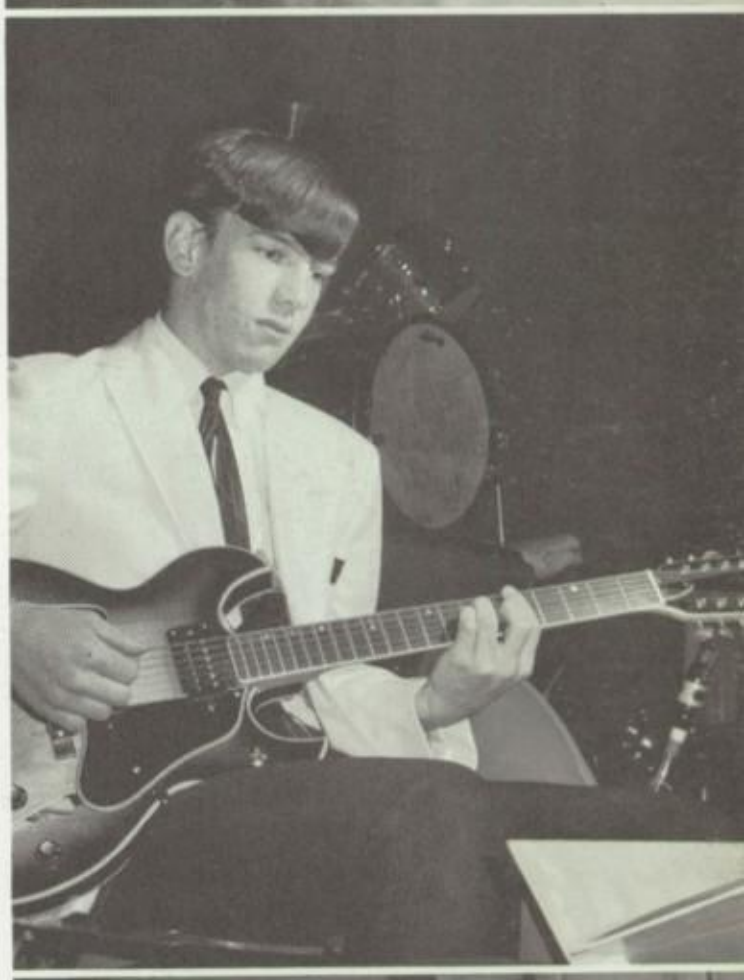
MUSIC

A study of Music is a means of developing better adults. It also brings them an appreciation of beauty and culture. It gives them a full sense of responsibility and experience in working with a group.

Music helps the student to understand himself by providing a great variety of illuminating experiences which interpret his wishes, his longings, his aspirations, his joys, his sorrows, in other words, his emotional life.

Also, rightly presented to youth, music can be a vital force in developing that understanding and tolerance, that mutual respect and brotherhood upon which the community of all human beings and the peace of the world must rest. The power of music develops sensitive and sympathetic citizens who are responsive to the needs of their fellow neighbors, their country and the world, and who are thus prepared to meet their civic responsibilities.

In these bewildering times, music is a stabilizing force for the individual where self discipline and knowledge of authority are keys to success and understanding in a discipline of the abstract.



HOME ECONOMICS

Home Economics is concerned with all aspects of family life from the formation of the family, its growth and development as a unit, to the emotional and physical development of each individual member of the family. An understanding of the composition and function of a contemporary family, and the effect of social, economic, cultural, and technological changes on the family unit, and the significance of management in daily living all contribute to a stable family.

The study of Home Economics is an attempt to provide a background for understanding the significance of cultural heritage to man and to explore individual behavior in relation to the family and community. Not to be neglected is the physical care of the family in the areas of nutrition, clothing, health, and housing which contribute in a very fundamental way to the success of the family unit.

In an age of rapid progress and constant change, individuals need the stability and serenity which can only be provided when the home and family are strong. It is here in the basic unit upon which our society is built that a personal philosophy of life or personal ideals and values have their birth.

LIBRARIAN: Grace Lawless

ENGLISH

This is the space age, the age of technology, the atomic age. Science has given man the tools to destroy himself or to provide ample food, clothing, and shelter and a better existence.

If this turns out to be other than man's last age it will be because of man thinking—thinking about humanity.

The teacher of English is humanist. He is a human being deeply interested in developing his students into effective, thinking expressive citizens of a democratic nation.

Through his efforts in English classes a student is working to become an informed, mature, and reasonable citizen of his country and of the world.

LIBRARY

Books are for reading, enjoying and learning. A library can be the key to a world of thought, fancy and imagination. Here we can enjoy the company of the wisest and the wittiest at their best. And from them we learn to see and hear the world around us with insight —for knowledge is the door to living.

LANGUAGE

When a student begins a foreign language, for the first time in his life, he learns to express himself in a language other than his own. This in itself is a completely new experience. He listens to the tapes, repeats what he hears; then he reads the language and finally writes it. He begins to think in the foreign language and to compare it with his own language. He observes differences in sounds, vocabulary and structure. Since no two languages coincide he begins to take a second look at his native language. This experience gives him a better understanding and greater knowledge of it.

In class the student should learn to do his work accurately, neatly and promptly. He should establish good methods of study.

So far only the study of the language proper has been mentioned. There are many other factors that can influence the student's thinking. One is the study of the civilization of the country where the language originated. Whether ancient or modern, it will draw his attention to the mores and problems of another nation in the light of life at the present time in his own country.

Another important part of the curriculum is the study of the literature of the language involved. Such classics as Virgil's Aeneid, Hugo's Les Miserables and El Cid are bound to furnish food for thought for the discerning student.

The teachers of the Language Department endeavor to present these materials without prejudice; it is the student who must think them through and draw his own conclusions. However, it is the hope of the Department that the student will choose the best of each and make it his own.

GUIDANCE

In this generation of mobility and technology there is always something new to which we can look forward. Within this structure of speed, motion, and technological discovery the human being with fears, sensitivity, and emotions of all nature, must learn to function. The human being is equipped with a mind—the means of problem solving—which directs its actions. Only this mind, then, and how it is used, can determine the future of any individual.

Since human beings seek satisfaction it is assumed that goals are set and attempts are made to reach these goals. The goals may be self-imposed of externally-imposed, long-range or short range, appropriate or inappropriate, but, in any event, thought is given to attainment. Many examples can be identified as the success achieved by positive, constructive thinking. It has worked for students as they have approached final exams bolstered by the knowledge that someone else had faith in them also. It has worked for athletes in giving that last ounce of physical energy to win against all odds. The key to success is the work that accompanied the positive thinking.

In reaching goals it is quite apparent that thinking and working go hand-in-hand. For this reason it might be well to create a new quotation: "As a Man Thinketh and Worketh So Shall He Become."

HEALTH

If we are to have well-adjusted, physically vigorous adults, free from remediable defects, we must develop and reinforce desirable practices, attitudes and knowledge to help students achieve a high level of well-being.

Children and youth need to learn the functions of the human body, the maintenance and improvement of personal health, the importance of food, rest, and exercise, personal appearance, personal adjustment and mental health, family life; the pros and cons of alcohol, smoking, and narcotics; the prevention of disease and accidents, the problems of community health.

A problem-solving approach to personal and community health provides practice in distinguishing fact from fallacy and in learning where to find factual data and authentic opinions. Such an approach leads to a consideration of the limitations and dangers of self-diagnosis and self-treatment.

There is no incidental health teaching. In our Health Office we use every opportunity to strengthen desirable health behavior and understanding so that they have the ability to make the necessary decisions which will affect their own health now and throughout life.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

The words "I can't" often affect the student in every aspect of his total being, from childhood to adulthood. Defeats become a structured part of actions, and skills reflect either the positive or negative attitude of the child.

Timing, physical coordination, control of ones' self is a positive action and thought reflected in Physical Education by the development of skills and abilities. These positive attitudes are much a part of Physical Education, can be guided and developed to their utmost extent, developing the total person.

As the body cannot be separated from the mind, so Physical Education cannot be separated from academic studies. Each is a necessary ingredient of the whole positive being.

MOTIVATION AND GOALS

THE PRACTICAL AND ABSTRACT . . .

MATH

Mathematics is a "contest" between the individual and a truth. The discipline of analyzing and proving in mathematics is a sound basis for developing an individual who neither accepts every statement or result without question. Perhaps he is exposed to a variety of half-truths by which he, in his search for an ultimate one, becomes a more inquiring yet tolerant citizen. Because in reality there are problems which man faces where there is no ultimate right or wrong; therein lies the final truth.

BUSINESS

Every student, upon leaving school, becomes engaged in the business of earning a living, regardless of what subjects he may have studied while in school. He must not be misled by the informality of today's society in the matter of dress, manners and customs. The world which he will soon enter has never demanded so much of clear, concise thinking and accuracy. There is no place for carelessness, laziness, indifference, inaccuracy, incompetence.

At the same time, the rewards have never been greater for the young person who does his work better than his fellows—and it makes no difference what that work may be. His success is assured.

Every student will have to manage his own personal business with skill and understanding in order to avoid the pitfalls of today's high-pressure selling and to get the greatest satisfaction from the income he receives for his work.

Doesn't it make sense that his educational program should include some training in business education? The Business Education Department at VVS is geared to help meet the needs of all students in making their successful way in this challenging world.

THE FUTURE AND THE PAST

Science is a human enterprise. It directly involves many people from physicist to technician to teacher to writer. But no less directly are all people involved. They eat, wear clothes and travel in and communicate through the products of science. Their judgments and beliefs are conditioned by what they learn of science and the scientific process. There is scarcely an issue, whether it be a political, social, or an economic one that does not in some way involve science.

Peoples' behavior is affected by science. It influences the extent to which they are self-reliant. It also increases the extent to which they seek and arrive at rational decisions to issues and effective solutions to problems. Science influenced behavior applies to both society and individuals.

All individuals can profit by using the methods and attitudes of science in finding information and seeking answers to the multitudinous problems of life. Actually man could be his own scientist—his own problem solver.

He could use the process of the scientific method to become a more competent individual and a more responsible citizen, to live life more abundantly and to understand better his own place in time, in space, in life, and in thought.

Training in how to think critically and how to develop desirable attitudes, appreciations and value judgments are invaluable to the individual and to society. The kind of reasoning and critical thought which has done most to advance human knowledge is the kind employed by research in the sciences.

Because of the place of science in the culture of our times and its impact on the personal lives of people, it becomes imperative that science has a prominent place in every level of education.

SOCIAL SCIENCE

Probably no subject area in the curriculum is more concerned with human values than the Social Science. In fact, the new state syllabus places far more emphasis on the concepts and understandings held by students than the facts learned and forgotten so quickly. The concepts discovered by the student for himself will become a part of him and influence his thinking long after he has forgotten the specific illustration that introduced it. As he progresses through the Social Science courses, his understanding will increase in sophistication and depth. Such a key concept as 'democracy' is impossible to accurately and completely define, but frequent contact with the various aspects of democracy should prepare the student to recognize its presence or absence. The Social Science teacher can only hope that this method will develop the kind of individual who can cope with a society in which the only constant is change.

AMERICAN FIELD SERVICE

The American Field Service is one of the largest organizations in the school. It sponsors the foreign students at V.V.S. and the American Abroad program. In order to bring the students over and to send a V.V.S. student abroad, the club raises money by means of a candy sale, A.F.S. friendship shares, and selling individual student pictures.

Foreign students attending area schools share a bit of their country with A.F.S. members. The club sponsors an A.F.S. Day during which the whole school gets to meet the foreign students in an assembly.

P.A. CLUB

Members of the P.A. Club assist the vice-principal by giving the daily announcements over the public address system. This training also helps the members with their public speaking.

The Audio-Visual Club is a service organization whose purpose is to assist the faculty in the use of audio-visual materials and equipment. Members set up and show films for classes. All members are trained to operate many types of machines and to perform minor repairs and adjustments. A limited number of members also provide service on the lighting and public address systems for assemblies, pep rallies, and athletic events.

The Latin Club aims to give members a better understanding of Roman culture. It also provides a social atmosphere in which students enjoy such activities as initiation, and the annual Christmas and pizza parties.

The Spanish Club, "Circula Español," allows students of Spanish to enjoy informal conversations in Spanish and to learn the culture of Spain. The members have opportunities to meet with guests who have visited Spanish speaking countries and also try to perfect their knowledge of the language.

Thoughts of fear, doubt, and indecision crystallize into weak, unmanly, and irresolute habits, which solidify into circumstances of failure, indigence, and slavish dependence. Thoughts of courage, self-reliance, and decision crystallize into circumstances of success, plenty, and freedom.

SPRING TRACK

The coaching of Mr. Menapace and Mr. Tolomeo resulted in a successful 1969 spring track meet, placing VVS second in the TRI VALLEY LEAGUE CHAMPIONSHIPS . . . for track and field events.

The outlook for the Varsity team of 1970 is even more promising. Featured on this year's team are Greg Ross, who leads in the sprint events, Denis Tallini, a successful half miler, and Scott DuChene, the 1969 pole vault champion. The team members, under the new direction of Coach Desain and Coach White, are eagerly awaiting the season to achieve their predicted success in competition.

GIRLS SHAPE UP FOR SUMMER

The tree, symbolizing life and its many branches, grows out of the book of knowledge which has carried man to the moon. Having attained this age old goal, man will no doubt extend his knowledge throughout the universe; but he will always look back to earth from whence he came.
